

Step right up and celebrate your silly side!

Circus Silly Willy encourages children, parents, and caregivers to lead like ringmasters, swing like trapeze artists, roar like lions, balance like tightrope walkers, stomp like elephants, and act like class clowns. This multi-faceted program, designed for children ages two to six and adults of every age, brings families together through participatory play: music and dance, balance and acrobatics, and comedy and imagination.

(Cooperation ★ Coordination ★ Imagination ★ Inspiration)

Cooperation

We put the “us” in circus by emphasizing listening and communication, teamwork and participation, and relationship building among peers, parents, and caregivers. Everyone, whether graceful, humorous, athletic, artistic, or all of the above, has something unique to share and something unique to learn. This give and take process creates a diverse stage where all of “us” shine in the circus.

Coordination

Children build both gross and fine motor skills—while tumbling, balancing, and juggling (and adults pick up a few tricks, too). Gross motor skills—solo and partner acrobatics, walking on the balance beam, and walking on the rolling globe—combined with fine motor skills—juggling scarves, balancing peacock feathers, and spinning plates—promote a varied skill set in an exciting play space. So much to do, so much fun!

Imagination

Imagine a better arena for imagination than a circus? Creativity abounds with singing, dancing, role-playing, and developing clown characters. When children develop characters, particularly their own clown personality, they place words and actions on their feelings and build a rich emotional vocabulary. Through dramatic expression, costumes, and props, we explore endless possibilities in the center ring.

Inspiration

Our circus is 89.9% Silly inspiration and 10.1% Willy perspiration (and 100% Silly Willy). We inspire confidence as children take “healthy risks,” master impressive feats, and dream under and over our big top. This inspiration is infectious. Once children see their progress, they not only will enjoy performing for family and friends but also will enjoy teaching them a Silly Willy thing or two. Say Ta-Da!
